DEPARTMENT OF MARINE SCIENCES

(Estd. 1978)

Department of Marine Sciences was established in the year 1978 in Berhampur University with full UGC assistance. It is the only university in the state which offers M.Sc. and M.Phil. Courses in Oceanography and Marine Biology. This multidisciplinary department also provides guidance to the research scholars in different aspects of Ocean Science leading to the award of the Ph.D. and D.Sc degrees in Marine Science. The purpose behind the establishment of this department was to develop quality human resources in different fields of Ocean Science through teaching and research. Orissa is a maritime state bordering Bay of Bengal which has a coastline of about 480 Km endowed with unique marine-coastal ecosystems like estuaries, coastal lagoons, beaches, mangroves rich with both living and non-living resources. The calm and beautiful beaches, some noteworthy pilgrim ages like Jagannath Temple at Puri, Sun Temple at Konark etc provide ample scope for development of coastal ecotourism in the state. The marine domain of the state is also known nationally and internationally for the largest brackish water lagoon, Chilika Lagoon, the richest mangrove forest at Bhitarkanika as habitat of many vulnerable and endangered wild fauna, notable endangered sea turtles, horse shoe crabs and salt water crocodiles and dolphins. The developmental activities such as construction of ports and harbours, aquaculture and other industries, tourism, etc are mostly concentrated along the coastal belt that require trained manpower for sustainable requirement of the land and water resources of the marine domain. The State of Orissa is also prone to many coastal hazards such as cyclones and floods, which very often ravage the Orissa coast and retard the developmental activities. To address these issues the development of well trained human resources form an essential component and the department of Marine Sciences is committed to provide such manpower for better utilization of the marine resources of the state.

Keeping in view the strategic importance of the coastal areas of Orissa for defence, sustainable harvest of different living and non-living resources and improvement in tourism the Government of Orissa in co-ordination with the Central Government has initiated a multidisciplinary Integrated Coastal Zone Management(ICZM) project for all round development within the coastal zone to improve the socio-economic standard of different section of the people. The promotion of such activities and to make sustainable management of different biotic and a biotic resources including use of physical energy of the ocean need skilled manpower in the field of Marine Science. The Department of Marine Sciences has been striving to achieve this goal since its inception and will continue by further improveing in its course curriculum and practical training through research. Needles to mention that the students of Marine Sciences have been actively involved in the national and international institutional projects and have proved themselves as leaders in the field of Marine Science.

Mission

- To provide quality education in the field of Oceanography, Marine Biology and allied fields and produce skilled manpower
- To provide academic support to Post-Graduate / M.Phil / Research programmes of the university in the discipline of Marine Sciences.
- To provide extension services to the user agencies in advisory capacity or by undertaking operational projects as service provider.
- To undertake cutting edge R&D activities and organize workshop/ seminars / trainings to promote the courses of Marine Sciences.

R&D PROJECTS

The department has undertaken many R&D and consultancy projects availing financial supports from DST, UGC, MoES, MoEF, and State Govt. over the years. Some projects are also in progress at present. As a result, strides of the faculty members and scholars the department is accredited with production of M.Phil and Ph.D degrees besides research publications in national and international journals.

Ph. D PROGRAMME

The department offers Ph.D programs in the fields of Physical Oceanography, Chemical Oceanography, Geological Oceanography, Meteorology, Remote Sensing Applications to Physics and Biology of the Ocean, Marine Fisheries, Biological Oceanography and Marine Pollution. This department over the years has produced 3 D.Sc.s and 54 Ph.Ds. At present, 14 fulltime Ph.D scholars are pursuing their research leading to Ph. D degree.

TRAINING

As a part of continuing education, the Department has conducted refresher courses in Marine Sciences to cater to the need of college and university teachers. The department has successfully conducted national seminars and symposia to provide platform for interaction of the scientists of different institutions to update its academic activities.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS (Estd. 1969)

The Physics Department was started in 1969. Dr. S. N. Behera joined the department as special officer and subsequently as the Head of Department. Prof. P. K. Misra joined as the first professor and Head of Department of Physics in 1974. The special paper offered at the PG level was Solid State Physics. Many students after completing their Master's in Physics studied computer application courses. A few of them are now occupying senior positions in Computer Science departments and IT centers in the country and abroad. During the nineties a new special paper, Material Science, was introduced emphasizing the applied aspects of Condensed Matter Physics. Many students who passed out with this special paper later joined IIT's and other National Laboratories for research. A few of them went abroad. Many students joined as faculty in the newly established engineering colleges.

The department has made outstanding contributions to research especially in Condensed Matter Physics and to some extent in Theoretical Nuclear Physics and Particle Physics. The hallmark of the department is sincere teaching and outstanding research. The department has availed funds from different national agencies for research. The department offers M. Phil course with specializations in Solid state, Nuclear and Particle Physics. It has organized 5 National Seminars and hosted the annual Condensed Matter Days symposium in 2005 and organized the OPS meetings. It organized a Winter School in Disordered Systems in Collaboration with TIFR, Mumbai and a Summer School in collaboration with the Institute of Physics, Bhubaneswar. A few of its Alumni are faculty in leading national level institutes and laboratories. Prof. N. C. Mohapatra, Prof. G. S. Tripathi, and Prof R. Sahu received the prestigious Samanta Chandra Sekhar award for 1996, 2005 and 2010 respectively. The department is a recipient of financial assistance under FIST programme from the Department of Science and Technology, Govt. of India.

CENTRE FOR CANADIAN STUDIES

The Centre for Canadian Studies, Berhampur University was established in the year 1993 under the Canadian Studies Development Programme of the Department of External Affairs, Government of Canada through the Shastri Indo-Canadian Institute, New Delhi. Since its inception the Centre has been ceaselessly promoting research in the areas of Literature, Politics, Economics, Law, Commerce, Management Studies etc. pertaining to the mutual areas of concerns. This is sufficiently illustrated in terms of a number of seminars, workshops, conferences and lecture programmes organized under the auspices of the centre over the years. Some scholars are pursuing their M.Phil course and Ph.D programme on subjects relating to Indo-Canadian perspectives in the departments of English, History, Political Science etc. During the last eighteen years six faculty members of the University have visited different Canadian Universities like the University of Regina (Saskatchewan) University of Winnipeg (Manitoba) and University of Ottawa under various academic programmes sponsored by SICI. The library of the centre has a collection of around 500 books and 140 journals in different disciplines. Till date six National Seminars, two State level Conferences and one State level workshop have been organized by the Centre. Some of the Seminar proceedings have been published. During March 2010 a two-day National Seminar on “Democracy, Nation and Ideology: The Indo-Canadian Perspectives” was successfully organized by the Centre. A special lecture programme was arranged on 24 July, 2008 by the Centre where Professor Gary Vanloon of Queen’s University spoke on “Global Water Challenges”. Our Vice-Chancellor Prof. J.K. Mahapatra visited Carleton University during 15th-18th June 2011 as a member of the Indian Vice-Chancellors’ delegation to participate in the “Indo-Canadian Education Summit” held at the initiative of Shastri Indo-Canadian Institute (SICI), New Delhi. This Canadian Centre of the University since its inception has been actively engaged in conducting various academic programmes sponsored by the SICI from time to time. By organizing seminars, conferences, lecture programmes the centre not only popularizes the Canadian Studies but also helps in motivating the students, scholars and teachers to pursue research work in this area. The students are also allowed to borrow books relating to Women's Studies from the Central Library, Berhampur University.

M.Phil. Course

M.Phil Course in Women's Studies was introduced in the year 2000 with a sanctioned strength of 08.

The students are encouraged to study gender issues, particularly those, which demand serious attention.

Organisation and Functions

The Centre since its inception has been organizing the seminars and workshops. It is also undertaking extension activities.

There are three committees to help the WSRC. These are (i) the Advisory Committee, (ii) the Working Committee and (iii) the Women's Complaint Cell. While the Advisory Committee recommends broad guidelines, the Working Committee advises regarding operational aspects. The Women's Complaint Cell has been formed to deal with complaints about sexual harassment in workplaces. Currently the University has opened a separate Women's Complaint Committee.

Research Activities

After establishment of the WSRC, interest in the study of gender issues has greatly increased. Several research projects including Ph.D. and M.Phil. dissertations on Women issues and problems have been completed.

The M.Phil. students of our Centre are engaged in research on important subjects such as women leadership, PRIS, Refugees, Micro-financing of Women Self-Help Groups, Working Women, Sex Workers, Tribal Women, Fisher Women, Widows and Girl Child, HIV / AIDS, Displacement Women movements in Orissa, Genderoles, ICDS, Women's Health etc.

The center has completed a number of research projects such as Girl Child, Child Marriage, Rape Violence in Orissa, Dowry Deaths in Orissa and Police Atrocities on Women in Orissa.

Extension Activities

The Women's Studies Research Centre, since its inception, has been very active in organizing extension activities. In this endeavour it has collaborated with several local NGOs such as PREM (Mandiapalli), United Artist Association (Ganjam) and Samata (Bhanja Bihar) to participate in extension activities.

Micro Credit and Women SHGs:- During the last five years, it has paid a lot of attention to organize self-help groups (SHGs) of women in nearby villages as a 'facilitator'. It has helped in establishing links between these women groups and funding agencies like NABARD, Rushikulya Gramya Bank and the State Government (through Rangailunda Block at Konisi). These groups have received loan amounting to Rs.8 lakhs during last two years. Through the success of this programme the Women's Studies Research Centre has contributed to the development of income generating capacity and the resultant empowerment of these poor women..

Family Counseling and Intervention

The Women's Studies Research Centre, has been trying for reunion between the husbands and wives whose relations have been estranged. In case of failure, it has tried to ensure that the wife, gets justice in the form of maintenance and other benefits which she is entitled to.

Healthy Practices

- The Centre has a Counselling Cell. Although, it has legal sanctions it has taken up a number of cases of wife-battering and other kinds of women torture and it has achieved success in some cases.
- As Women's Studies is of interdisciplinary nature subjects requiring both theoretical knowledge and field insights, the Centre invites outside experts/field activists to teach our students and address our seminars.
